

WONDERS PERFORMED BY HANDS OF MISS KELLER

Alabama Blind Girl is Undoubtedly the Most Remarkable Woman in the World To-Day.

(Washington Post.)

Helen Keller is undoubtedly the most wonderful and remarkable woman in the world today. Indeed, it would not be exaggeration to say that she is absolutely unique among all human beings. Born into a world that was for her a black and eternal silence, unable to either see or hear, she has developed her inner consciousness so completely that she does not seem to suffer from the lack of any sense. It is handicap enough in this world to be either blind or deaf, and yet this woman, doubly afflicted, is finely educated, intelligent, responsive, keen to appreciate her surroundings and withal apparently unconscious of the fact that she is deprived of sight and hearing.

Touch is Everything.
In one of the current magazines this wonderful woman tells how she keeps in touch with the world around her. It is literally a matter of touch. Through her fingers and hands a million sensations pass to her brain, where they create ideas and enable her to form an accurate mental picture of persons and things. It is through the impressions made upon her hand by the fingers of her companions that she is enabled to understand the thoughts that are in their minds. "My hand is to me," she says, "what your hearing and sight is to you. The hand is my eye, with which I reach through isolation and darkness." Added to her acute sense of touch there is a keen and lively imagination, which enables her to make the budding tree, the fragrant flower, or any other insensate object a real, living, actual thing. Her idea of the interior of a house is obtained by touching everything with her fingers. Her judgment of a person is formed by passing her hand over his or her countenance, feeling every feature, but is more particularly obtained by the impress of the hand.

Sense Finely Developed.
This sensitiveness of touch is so finely developed in Miss Keller that she recognizes persons by their hand-grasp, exactly as others who are equipped with sight look into the face. In fact, she pities those who are untrained of touch and are thus ignorant of what she calls the embossed character of the hand. According to her experience, not only is the hand as easy to recognize as the face, but it reveals its secrets more openly and unconsciously. "People control their countenance," she says, "but the hand is under no such restraint. It relaxes and becomes listless when the spirit is low and dejected; the muscles tighten when the mind is excited or the heart glad, and permanent qualities are written on it all the time." Nor are these mere words. She has time and time again demonstrated her ability to read character through the hand, to describe people so accurately that they credited her with supernatural sense. She disclaims, however, any extraordinary sagacity. She simply, but literally, gains her impressions first-hand, and they are unfailingly accurate.

Of Great Value.
The value of Miss Keller's record is the impetus which it will give to the study of the sense of touch, as well as the assurance which it conveys that the human hand will well repay more careful attention. The individuality of the hand was emphasized in "Pud-d'nhead Wilson," in which romance the distinctive lines of the thumb were made to play an important part. Since the appearance of that story the impress of the thumb has become as if a the field of exploration had been opened. The opportunity which presents itself for scientific study ought not to pass unheeded. It might be possible, for instance, to learn whether the hand, like the face, reveals symptoms of disease. It may have other secrets which stand ready to be disclosed if our perceptions are only delicate and sensitive enough to understand them. Certainly the experience of Helen Keller demonstrates that the eye is not the only window through which the soul can look out upon the world.

MAY NOT GET THE MOTOR-BOAT RACES.

(Miami Metropolis.)
In all probabilities Miami will not get this day's motorboat racing, if any at all, following the events scheduled to take place at Lake World during the first three days of next month, and in which it is said that some of the crack racing boats of that class and type will participate. This is made so by a letter received yesterday by Commodore H. C. Roome from Mr. W. J. Morgan, manager of the proposed events at Palm Beach, Key West and Havana, and in which he says the arrangements for the races at these three places make it necessary for the boats to be in Havana on the 8th of February. The races close at Palm Beach on the 3rd; the Martinique leaves here for Key West and Havana on the morning of the 5th, and as many of the participants are scheduled to go over to her, the only possible chance to get the races here will be on the 4th, but this, Mr. Morgan believes, can be done.

He advises the local promoters of the races to offer a first, and possibly a second prize in the contest to be run here, providing, of course, that the boats come for that purpose and reach here in time. Commodore Roome wired Mr. Morgan in return that the local promoters have provided for a first and second prize in salt contest, if it can be arranged, but as yet no reply has been received.

Under these conditions it would seem that Miami stands a good chance of not having the races, as it is looked upon as almost impossible for the boats to get here from Lake World under a day, in which event the contest cannot be held. The distance is seventy-five miles, and even though these boats may be very fast, the many turns and shallow places will make it as hard and require as much time for them to make the trip as it would the ordinary power craft. However, the promoters, like the showman, are working upon the theory that everything is possible, and will be prepared to pull off the races if the boats get here on time. They will also prepare a set of dory and launch races to precede the main contest, both in order to give the latter crafts time to reach Miami and also to increase the interest and excitement in the sport.

This information is regrettable, as it carries with it the possibility of no races being held here, the apparent obstacle and cause being the fact that the boats must be in Havana on the 8th of February. Why this is compulsory is not known, though it does seem that were it the wish and desire to give Miami a chance to have the races that sufficient time intervenes between now and then to change the schedule so that the boats could stop here without inconvenience or trouble to anyone at Key West or Havana.

Pleasant and Most Effective.
T. J. Chambers, Ed. Vindicator, Liberty, Texas, writes December 25, 1932: "With pleasure and unsolicited by you, I bear testimony to the curative power of Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I have used it in my family and can cheerfully affirm it is the most effective and pleasant remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by all druggists.

HORSES ON A MOLASSES DIET

SUNDAY
WHY TEAMS OF BROOKLYN
SUGAR REFINERY ALWAYS LOOK WELL.

(New York Sun.)
The trucking horses used by a big sugar refining firm in Brooklyn are such fine, big, sleek-looking animals that their passage through the streets attracts attention and horsemen generally believe that the cost of keeping them in such condition must be considerably above the average. That is not the case, however, for in the stable of the firm an experiment of mixing molasses with the feed has been made and the plan has been found to be not only extremely economical, but also of exceptional value in producing nourishment. It costs only 34 cents a day to feed these fine horses which range from 1,700 to 1,800 pounds in weight. This, according to experts, is from 20 to 27 per cent cheaper than the old system of maintaining the stock on oats and hay entirely.

This is what the sugar refinery horses eat. In the morning they get a quart and a half of Indian corn meal, a quart of wheat bran, seven pounds of cut hay and a quart and a half of sugar house syrup, which remains after all possible crystallization of sugar has taken place. At noon each horse gets four to five quarts of oats and the night ration is the same as the morning, except that five pounds of loose hay is placed in the stall in addition. The hygienic value of the molasses feed formula is proved by an experiment which was made on two run-down horses that had been kept upon ordinary rations. Their weights were 890 and 825 pounds when they were put on the molasses system and both soon showed improvement in weight and health. At the end of six weeks the smaller had gained 200 pounds and the other was 181 pounds heavier.

With The Money-Makers

What Is Being Done by The Journal Advertisers and Advertisers All Over the Continent, with Some Good Ideas from Ad. Experts.

Must Keep At It.
A firm that will spend fifty thousand dollars for a year's advertising, then rest five years to get its return, is liable to be kept on the waiting list.—Returns.

Not Afraid.
T. H. Lannon Co. is advertising some rare bargains in their big ad in today's Journal. Mr. Lannon is a hustler, and believes in giving such inducements as will bring trade and he is not afraid to invest a little money in newspaper advertising.

A New Idea.
Adams Dry Goods Company, of New York, recently used an interesting sale idea, called "Buyers' Day." The buyers for each department of the company entered a competition to sell the greatest amount of merchandise on the day of sale.—American Advertiser.

Still in Progress.
The big cost price sale of Louis Friedman & Co. is still in progress. This is another one of these sales which puts money directly into the buyer's pockets.

Must Be Profitable.
An advertising campaign intelligently planned and persistently followed will, in due time, result in an established position on the market for your goods. In fact, in time your name or trade mark can be made the most valuable of all your assets.—Modern Methods.

Taking Advantage of It.
The Barney-Cavanaugh Hardware Co., of Mobile, is taking advantage of the situation in Pensacola. Local hardware dealers will not advertise—outsiders will. The outside dealer will get some of the business too.

A Great Scheme.
Montgomery, Ward & Co., of Chicago, have established a monthly publication, called "Among Ourselves," which is published in the interests of the employees of the great Chicago mail-order house. The Journal consists of a number of interesting items, hints and suggestions of value to the employees of the different departments.

Look At The Journal's.
You can tell the papers that pay advertisers, like the hotels that are good, by the business. Much advertising in a paper means big results to advertisers.—Star Monthly Solicitor.

Experience The Best School.
Every advertiser finds experience the most valuable schooling he could have. He must use his experience to make his business continue as good as it has been, and must keep using that experience to make it as good as he would like to have it.—Mail Trader.

Advertising Always Pays.
Mr. W. A. D'Alemberte says that the Herpicide advertising in The Journal has been very profitable to him and to the manufacturers of Herpicide. He says the sale on this excellent hair tonic has been something enormous.

Don't Be Too Slow.
Don't wait until the selling season is in its full blast before you advertise what you have to sell; do it now, when you have plenty of time to start it right and do it well.—Agents' Guide.

Ask Him If This is Not True.
The sales of Duffy's malt whiskey in Pensacola up to six months ago were ordinary. About six months ago the manufacturers of this excellent whiskey began some advertising in The Journal. Mr. Eugene Albana, who is distributor for this territory, will tell you that the whiskey is now sold at every first class bar in the city, and the demand has increased nearly forty per cent.

Money and Judgment.
It takes a large amount of good money to advertise on a large scale, but it takes a liberal amount of good judgment to advertise successfully even on a small scale.—Mail Trader.

He is Convinced.
If there had been any doubt as to whether people read advertisements or not, all doubts would have disappeared last Friday. On that date there appeared an ad in The Journal for Geo. W. Pryor & Son, grocers, in which granulated sugar was quoted at 5c per pound. Of course, this was The Journal's mistake, but Manager Dick McAllister says that he was besieged with orders all that day and the day after for five cent granulated sugar. He says he had no idea that so many people read advertisements.

A Wise Saying.
Half of your success in advertising is based on confidence and belief in the genuineness of your proposition. You can push a thing hard when you believe in its merits.—White's Class Advertising.

Why Not Try It?
The demand for rooms and board in Pensacola was never greater. Northern people are arriving here every day to spend the winter and they all look at The Journal's want columns to see where rooms or board may be obtained. At present the demand is far greater than the supply. Parties who have spare rooms and wish to make a few extra dollars may rent them by inserting a small ad in The Journal.

The Diamond Cure.
The latest news from Paris, is that they have discovered a diamond cure for consumption. If you fear consumption or pneumonia, it will, however, be best for you to take that great remedy mentioned by W. T. McGee, of Vanleer, Tenn. "I had a cough for fourteen years. Nothing helped me, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which gave instant relief, and effected a permanent cure." Unequalled quick cure for Throat and Lung troubles. At all drug stores; price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.
